Tragic Auto Accident Claims Life Of 16-Year-Old Belle Glades Boy

HORACE CLIFTON COLLINS, JR.

A community of friends share the grief of parents, sisters and grandmother in the death of Horace Clifton Collins, Jr., 16, who was killed instantly in an auto accident near Carrabelle, Florida at noon on Sunday, July 17.

"Cliff," the only son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. "Cully" Collins, Sr., 201 NW Avenue D, Belle Glade, where he had been a senior at Belle Glade High School this coming school year. He had been elected president of Teen Town and of the Junior Civitan Club. Clifton was a member of the Community Methodist Church. He was born September 2, 1949 at Belle Glade.

to Ronnie's parents home in Alabama, July 15. Cliff was headed home.

Young Collins and Ronnie Smith, who had made his home here with his aunt and uncle Mr. and Mrs. Hugh J. Rudder during last school year, had camped briefly at Ridgecrest, where the boys had enjoyed previous summers before starting out on their trip.

With a desire to see southern colleges and visit counselors who had greatly impressed them at Camp Ridgecrest, the two young men had planned the 4500 mile trip during the past two years. Meanwhile, Cliff had decided he would enroll at Palm Beach Junior College and under study his father's business here.

Also killed in the accident was a passenger in the other car, 2-year-old David Swanson who was riding with his mother, Mrs. Flora Swanson, 32, and two other children, Teddie, 2, and Sandy, 15. The three who survived the accident were taken to Tallahassee Memorial Hospital.

Funeral services were held Wednesday morning, 10:30 at the Community Methodist Church, conducted by pastor Reverend W. R. Boland.

Classmates and friends of Belle Glade High School were pallbearers, Sid Smith, Ronnie Smith, Harvey Pearlman, Eddie Vandergard, Ray Sullivan, Dennis Snyder, Danny Davis, Gene Hollingsworth, Jimmy Altman and Jack Payne.

Interment was on Saturday, July 2, Clifton had driven to Lineville, Alabama, where he spent a few days with his friend Ronnie Smith, before the two young men set out on a 4500 mile trip which included visits with Ridgecrest counselor and at colleges in Cincinnati, St. Louis, and Mississippi. They had concluded a two week tour of southeastern states, arriving back

Mathis Attends FBI School

DEPUTY POLICE CHIEF BILL MATHIS

Belle Glade was signally honored when announcement was made this week that Deputy Police Chief Bill Mathis had been selected to attend the National Academy of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Police Chief Charles Goodlett who completed this same course in 1954, was advised by telegram from J. Edgar Hoover, Director of the FBI, that Mathis had been accepted. He will enroll in the class beginning August 15th.

It is a high honor to a man and to his community to be invited to attend this course, and Mathis who is second in command to Chief Goodlett, has worked hard to prepare himself for the school.

Except for a brief interview Mathis has been a member of the Belle Glade Police Force since 1955, serving in various positions.

He served in the U. S. Navy attended the Florida Law enforcement Academy in Tallahassee, and has constantly taken courses to improve himself in police status.

Persons who are invited to attend the course are carefully screened by the FBI and must have a good record of performance in their local community. When Mathis completes his course, Belle Glade will have had two members of its police force to accomplish this feat. The city who contributes to the man in order for him to attend will be rewarded by the additional experience and knowledge gained.

Deputy Chief Mathis, his wife, Louise, three children, Pamela Anne, Richard and Bill Jr., live at 34 N. E. Ave. J. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Mathis are residents of 116 S. W. Ave. B, Belle Glade.

Investigation Continues In Insecticide Death

Charles Rhodes, head of the County's Health Department on Environmental Health, said in an interview with this paper, "residents are foolish to buy or use any poison sold or given to them in brown paper bags or jars without identification or instructions listed as to the contents."

"We urge everyone to be extremely careful in using poisons of any description" State law prohibits the sale of some of these dangerous poisons except to agricultural interests.

At press time, Wednesday, the Herald was advised by Deputy Police Chief Mathis that the investigation into the poisoning death of Angela Reynolds, 19 months old, which occurred last Saturday from indistinct use of poison chemicals is continuing.

Mathis said, "that it will probably be Thursday evening before a report is completed by the Sheriff's office as to the findings of the laboratory tests."

A woman, Myrtice Johnson of 414 SW Ave. B Place was overcome while cleaning up at the Cotton Club, located on 5th Street. Two other children at the home of the stricken child were hospitalized and released after treatment.

After a thorough cleaning, the Cotton Club and residents which had been padlocked by the County Health authorities, have been reopened.

Although actual tests have not been completed as to the exact poison involved parathion one of the most deadly chemicals used by area farmers is reportedly sneaked away by farm workers and sold or given to area residents to use. The farmers have no knowledge of this.

Bunn McCall Announces Candidacy

With the announcement last week by Commissioner Lebron Williams that he would not be a candidate for re-election to a seat on the city commission, H. Bunn McCall, a Everglades Savings and Loan official, became the first candidate to file for the vacant north borough seat.

McCall, a Belle Glade resident and active in civic affairs locally for the past 14 years is a native of Sanford, Florida. Recently he and other citizens opposed the change in liquor hours with in the city.

The central borough seat now held by H. C. (Connie) Bowen is the only other seat to be voted on. Bowen who is on vacation has not made known his intentions at this date. The election to be held September 13 should draw a good turnout. Registration books will remain open until September 2nd and will then close until ten days after the election. The last day for qualifying for candidates is August 24, 1966 at 4:30 p. m.

George C. Young Named To Co. Council On Aging

News was received from Tallahassee Tuesday of the appointment of Mr. George C. Young, realtor and business associate of the Herald as a member of the Palm Beach County Council on Aging.

The appointment was made by former Senator Clyde Glen extensive. The director of the State Commission on Aging. The Commission is organized to look into the problems regarding elderly persons and make recommendations for projects and activities to solve them.

The County Council will work with the state commission and is made up of outstanding citizens through out the county.

Economy Affected

For the first time in many years the United States Sugar Corporation is presently engaged in a labor dispute. Last Friday both mills at Clewiston and at Bryant, were shut down except for a few essential key employees.

The union, International Association of Machinists, Local No. 57, together with representatives of the Sugar Corporation and a federal mediator have been meeting since Tuesday in an effort to work out their differences.

The work shut-down affecting some 700 employees at the two mills, will vitally affect the economy of the Glades area if agreements are not soon reached. This union is also involved at present in a strike against five airlines.

Company officials have indicated their willingness to resume negotiations since the last meeting with the union and a mediator on June 30. The union which delayed meeting until this week apparently objected to conferring because of the presence of company lawyers. The company points out that buyers customarily handle negotiations, and that the union deals with attorneys in other area contracts.

The union by delaying any length of time would be putting heavy pressure on the company to meet demands, as the fall grinding season would be starting. The company points out that the drastic cut back in sugar acreage and the obvious determination on the part of the federal government to hold down the price of sugar prevents meeting the unreasonable demands of the union.

The company has offered a package deal amounting to a 12% wage increase, however the union representative said this is not sufficient to meet the union request for skilled workers of $3.15 per hour.

The U. S. Sugar Corporation, pioneers in the Glades Sugar development, always negotiated in the past with a local independent union. The national machinists union which now represents the workers at the two mills are pressing for their biggest gains since taking over the following: Fred C. Sikes, Personnel Director, Earl E. Edwards, Harry T. Vaughn, Jr., and for the union, W. J. Uerry, E. F. Pete Holland, local president, O. C. Wicks, Clewis on, Lewis Blount, Lake Harbor, Wade Phillips, Clewis on, and Frank E. Dalgo, national representative.

Watch Presentations For New State Constitution

An event that is taking place in Florida these days that should excite the close attention of the state's citizens, is the presentation of the preliminary draft of a new Constitution. It contains a lot to talk about.

The draft proposes some controversial changes in the state's basic law, some of which is good, some bad and some indifferent.

Of particular concern is one proposal which would alter the present Cabinet system under which the executive power is shared among the governor and six elected officials. The proposal enlarges the governor's power and reduces the cabinets.

This seems to us a risky and illogical messing with a proven and reliable system of government. Much has been written about Florida's Cabinet system of government and to some it may appear as a funny looking but it has worked well over the years.

The system in our opinion has saved Florida from political bossism by preventing a Governor with complete authority over state funds and personnel from creating a strong political machine. The cabinet acts as a brake on one man rule such as other states experience.

The weekly meetings of the cabinet, as Secretary of State Tom Adams points out, provides opportunities for public debate on state policy making. The fact that the governor can be out voted by office holders who are answerable to the public is sound and works to the public's interests.

The executive branch can and should be improved by resigning and reorganizing departments for more efficient operation.

Poverty Programs Under Scrutiny

Considerable controversy has resulted since this paper together with other coast papers reported the proposed granting of over $800,000 to a St. Petersburg Florida based organization to finance free legal services for migrant agricultural laborers.

The proposed grant has at the present been halted and five Florida Congressmen, Gibbons, Fessell, Haley, Pepper, and Rogers have asked for investigations into the manner in which these monies have been expended.

Congressman Paul Rogers has reportedly announced that he will conduct a personal investigation in his district upon adjournment of Congress. Congressman Sam Gibbons of Hillsborough County is reportedly very upset at the bypassing of state and local agencies being advised by consultants. Gibbons who sponsored the legislation on the part of the administration requested an audit, which presently is under way.

Thomas P. Hardeman, who already heads up two poverty programs under the office of Economic Opportunity, one to train Vista Workers and the other Com-

Sgt. Joe Kardell was guest speaker at the Lions Club Wednesday luncheon meeting, reporting on Police Department work.

Kardell, a Belle Glade Police Officer, told the group he was in the work because he liked it. "In fact" he said, "I was born into this work. My father, his father, and my great grand father were all in police work, so I grew up planning to enter the field myself."

As in any field, he emphasized, you have to be dedicated to your work to do a good job.

Protecting The Public

Announcement by the Glades area Funeral Homes and elsewhere in the state that emergency ambulance service will not be available in the future due to stringent requirements set forth by the State Board of Health and the Palm Beach County Health Department, gives cause to reflect how far can we go to protect the public.

Plain old economics of profit and loss enter the picture when the small rural area Funeral Home operator tries to provide a measure of service to his home area. The owner of this business is oftentimes the embalmer, the ambulance driver, does his own clerical work & with only one helper conducts funerals.

Emergency ambulance service is not profitable, and to meet rules such as has been prescribed goes beyond the pocketbook's ability. Yet one cannot argue that there is not merit in requiring qualified drivers with additional special equipment to serve the injured.

It remains then if this service is to be provided a governmental agency must provide the funds to pay the cost. In protecting the public, we must share the charges.

Responsibilities For Leadership

The mantle of leadership is not a cloak of comfort, but rather the role of responsibility. Leadership does not permit a person or a nation luxury or a license.

Leadership imposes responsibility. Today to deserve that leadership, we must build a nation of men and women able to fulfill the hopes of those who came before us and to lay the groundwork for the yet-unborn generation to follow us.

Today the world asks: What is the nature of today's America? This American that is being tested as never before, for the only way we Americans will be able to carry our world burdens in the years ahead will be by continuing to create a strong, healthy and cohesive society.

There are great tasks that lie ahead in our own country. In five years, 211 millions people will live here. Half of them will be under the age of 25. Within ten years we will need two million new homes.

In ten years five million more people will be over the age of 65 bringing additional health and welfare problems, transportation problems and educational.

The statistics themselves stagger the imagination. The very size and scope of our society can only be met by cooperation among all segments of our society and by concerted and unified action among all levels of government. It can be done.

Today there are some who take for granted our American democratic heritage. Protection of this heritage is our greatest challenge in a modern world.

Highway Slaughter

In 1965 Americans saw 49,000 persons killed in automobile accidents in the United States. For comparison this is nearly 30 times the number killed in the war in Viet Nam.

This is not the whole story. 1,600,000 more people were injured, many crippled for life. In addition to the human loss and misery there was over eight and one-half billion dollars lost in property damage and other economic damage.

In the United States today there are 90 million vehicles being operated over 3.6 million miles of roads and streets by 100 million registered drivers for a total of almost 900 billion vehicle miles per year. This total is growing yearly and becomes increasingly staggering. Apparently there is no single approach to solving the traffic safety problem.

Of the 3.6 million miles of roads and streets, 25% are in the primitive category, 36 percent of them are covered with slag, gravel or stone, 39 percent has some form of dustless surface.

The State Highway system represents about 20% of the Nations public road and street mileage yet it carries some 60 percent of the total traffic. At the present time the Interstate Systems is 83% complete and can now handle 15 1/2 percent of all vehicular traffic and when eventually finished will accommodate 20% of the total.

With the above statistics, the role of the road in traffic safety becomes most important. We know it is impracticable and impossible to build every mile of road and street as a freeway but the record of the expressway today in modern travel is unsurpassed.

Highway designs for the future will carry more and more responsibility for safety features. It is the most important approach to saving traffic accidents.

Uncle Dan From Doolie Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

I saw in the papers where a automobile dealer in Boston was advertising a bunch of cars at slashed prices on account of they had been "previously owned." This idea is bound to catch on and afore long we won't have no more "used cars" or "second-hand furniture." Everthing will be just "previously owned."

I bring this matter up at the country store Saturday night and Zeke Grubb allowed as how this dealer in Boston must have got lost overnight over on the Harvard campus and picked this one up.

Ed Doolittle was disagreed with Zeke, claimed all screwball ideas was now originated and copyrighted exclusive in Washington. He figured this dealer must have worked for a spell in the Pentagon or the Department of Agriculture.

Bug Hookum was of the opinion the feller probable got his basic training in the Labor Department on account of this Department had now took the lead in new ideas. He told the fellers he had saw where Congressman Robert Michel of Illinois reported the Labor Department was going to spend $141,854 to train 700 disemployed men in the art of diaper service.

Josh Clodhopper butted in to say this was a mighty fine idea and he wanted to congratulate the Labor Department for thinking it up first. But Bug went on to say Congressman Michel wasn't none to pleased about the matter and allowed as how it was time fer a change. Bug said the Congressman didn't explain whether he meant a change of diapers or a change of Labor Departments.

Ed admitted this was a mighty fine idea and he was willing to give the Labor Department credit, but he still claimed the Agriculture Department was leading in ideas. Fer instance, he reported he had saw where the folks in the Agriculture Department was asking a committee of the Congress to set up a Farmers Overseas Core and send American farmers to them foreign countries to teach 'em how to farm, sorter like the Peace Core was teaching 'em how to keep the peace in Viet Nam. Ed explained that what made this such a fine idea was it come at a time when we was getting short of farmers and food surplus here at home. It would have been terrible, allowed Ed, if it had come a few year ago when we had a big surplus of farmers and food.

Clem Webster of the Great Society said he wanted to put in a good word for Washington, reported he had saw where they was holding the pay hike fer Federal employees down to 2.2 per cent this fiscal year, a improvement of 4 over last year.

I reckon, Mister Editor, you'd have to say the situation at the store Saturday night was the same as in Viet Nam, "fluid", and could go either way.

Yours truly,
Uncle Dan

How Big Is Big Government And Its Bureaucracy?

All the time you hear about "Big" government and the big government bureaucracy. Everyone knows it is BIG but do you know how big it really is?

Well, at latest count the federal government employs 5,700,000 people! give or take a few thousand! directly. Through its grants, another 8,000,000 (give or take a few thousand) also work for big brother.

If you add the direct employees and the indirect employees, you find out that about one out of every five people who work in this big country are belled up to the federal trough when it comes pay check time.

Does that sound big enough for you? To get some idea of just how BIG this is, the next time you are driving around in your car, just keep your eyes open and count every fifth person you see and count him as part of our big government it is rather startling.

What in the world do all these people do to earn the tax dollars they draw? The government has over 15,000 job categories, from Astronaut to zoologist. This doesn't count the different classifications in the armed services.

Big brother is even getting into the state and local operations of government. This federal grasp through federal financial aid to smaller governmental units will reach 14.7 billion this year. This comes out to about two to three million states and local government jobs a year feeding on big brother.

This is growing. The Labor Department figures that these state jobs will grow from about 8 million total this year to over 10.1 million by 1970 in order to handle the money infusion generated by current federal programs.

Most people think of the image of government employees as clerks, etc. The facts are that the number of federal clerks is only about 25,000 and is about the same number as it was 10 years ago.

In one way or another, two out of every three scientists and engineers in the United States are supported by federal funds.

In the past 10 years the number of people employed by the government has grown by about 40 percent. . . Just to kick around a few figures, about 40,000 physical scientists and 130,000 engineers are on the payroll. This is just an example of who works for big brother.

With all this man (and woman) power, things still don't run the smooth. Around every corner and behind a lot of those desks you find the typical government bureaucracy.

If you want to be polite, the government machine can be in "Passive revolt" or at best "Non-CO-OPERATIVE" with the common folks or if you want to be blunt you could say that some departments are more than a little "Resistant" to cooperation.

It has been said that Bureaucracy, where it is found, tends to resist change. They are like the cigarette commercial that says "We would rather fight than switch."

One thing is for sure, when you have occasion to deal with the government you are in for a real trying time. You can deal and deal and deal and wind up right where you started! This run around can become exasperating.

The system seems fool proof on paper but the rumor has it that it is not so heavy with knot-heads. It seems that when a government department finds a good, hardworking, intelligent worker they don't want to lose him. After all, someone has to do some work around the joint. So, he doesn't get promoted. He just stays and works and works.

On the otherhand, when an employee is a real dingaling and his department head would like to give him the heave ho, it is so much trouble to get him fired, it is easier to get him promoted out of the department.

First thing you know, the top brass accounts for a good part of the goof-ups no one wants.

I like to keep my dealings with big brother on a simple basis. I buy my stamps from the post office, pay my taxes to the Internal Revenue Service and can't wait to start getting a check from the Social Security Department. I just hope the money lasts until I get my share so hang on sloopy, hang on!

The March Of Mankind

This year marks the 125th anniversary of the birth of Oliver Wendell Holmes, for thirty years a member of the United States Supreme Court. He had a profound sense of history. He emphasized its continuity. History, to him, was a procession in which generations of men of all times, of all places, of all races, march together through the centuries. Man, he said, might be likened to an electric spark in the filament of an electric light globe. He is in reality only an instant in an endless flowing current.

One of his secretaries once brought his son to meet the famous jurist. The following day Justice Holmes wrote the boy a personal letter, saying: "When you become an old man you can tell some little boy that once you met an old man who, when he was a little boy, met an old man who had seen King George III on the streets of London."

Peter said, "I have no silver and gold, but I give you what I have; in the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, walk."

As Peter and John were going into the Temple, a lame man asked them for alms. Peter told him, "I have no silver and gold..." But he gave what he had: in the name of Jesus, he healed the lame man.

How amazing that the once impetuous Peter could do this! Recall Peter's record as one of the twelve to whom the Master gave special training. Sometimes he gladdened Jesus' heart, but at other times he brought forth the Master's rebuke. During one high moment Peter pledged his loyalty to Jesus—come what may. Later on, Jesus was arrested and faced the death sentence. When a maid identified Peter as one of the Galilean's friends, he denied even knowing the Master.

That was not the same Peter we read about in today's scripture passage. Here is a changed Peter—one filled with the Holy Spirit. He sees a man in need and knows his Savior can help him.

What an impress Jesus made on Peter! Today Jesus Christ makes His unique mark upon each of us whenever we give Him the opportunity.

PRAYER: O God, we thank Thee for sending Thy Son, Jesus Christ, that we may have the abundant life. Help us through Him to reach the heights for which we were created. In the Redeemer's name. Amen.

Does God Have Influence In This 20th Century?

James Summers, president of the Christian Witness, will not fail," he added. Thompson encouraged his audience to resist godless materialistic influence now and come under God's protective influence in order to enjoy life in God's new order of peace and happiness.

After a light refreshing rain, Charles G. Thompson, convention chairman and district supervisor for the Watchtower Society, delivered the welcome address to more than 700 delegates, Summers reported. Thompson said, "The work of making disciples of people of all the nations is unique to Christian Witnesses of Jehovah since the responsibility was nonexistent in pre-Christian times."

According to Summers, the principal address "Does God Have Influence In This Twentieth Century?" by C. G. Thompson attracted wide community interest. "While some viewed it a strong rebuttal to the 'God is dead' concept, the speaker presented clear evidence of God's protective influence in modern times," Summers said.

An attentive audience of 1,222 heard Thompson say that although more than 50 countries have banned Jehovah's Witnesses in modern times, no government has succeeded in stopping their preaching of God's Kingdom. Summers disclaimed, "Hitler vowed to exterminate Jehovah's Witnesses, but the work of God's people continues while he and his Nazi party are gone," Thompson said. God's will is irresistible, his purpose to cleanse the earth of ungodly persons and usher in a righteous new system to things

The Penalty

"The Lord shall judge His People."

Deuteronomy 32:36

For every crime against the state, there is an established penalty. In the area of man's relation with God there is, as the Apostle Paul reminded, "a certain fearful looking for of judgement."

If we are responsible individuals, whether teenage or adult, we can face a certain temptation or challenge with awareness of any "right" or "wrong" involved therein. More often than not, the "right" way is far from easiest. At least, this is true for the moment. A wrong word or a wrong act may take us out of a difficult situation or bring some temporary reward or profit. But we are ever aware of judgement. If it does not come in the due course of events, our conscience periodically reminds us that it is waiting somewhere in the days of tomorrow.

We cannot be perfect. We are human. Yet we can strive to turn away from that which is wrong and, with conscience as a guide, strive to do that which is right.

Mrs. Ruth Wedgworth & Mrs. Edith Freedlund were touring the mediterranean countries, including The Holy Land, and the following is a letter from Mrs. Freedlund concerning the trip.

Jerusalem, Jordan. We took a Steamer from Alexandria to Beirut, Lebanon. This is a fast growing city of almost two million people, 80% of them are literate. One half are Christians and one half Moslem. The American University of 3,500 students is the largest United States College outside of the United States. Lebanon covers 4,300 sq. miles, 75% mountains. There are many large apartment houses being built. The guide told us that, "People here have money like sand." This country has been ruled by the Turks and French, but is now free. In a Palace we saw many beautiful mosaic pictures on the walls, oriental

The ornamental carving on the stones are Oriental, Roman, and Greek. Some of the granite came from Egypt. There were separate temples to Jupiter, Venus etc. and two large pools — one to wash the animals before they were sacrificed. This was an important Caravan Station and once was a Fortress. Many of the ruined temples have been destroyed by Romans, Christians, Moslems etc. each conqueror built his own temple, sometimes there are three temples, one built on top of the other.

This used to be a Caravan city of 250,000, but now has only 8,000 inhabitants. The town is full of old ruins. It is a mountainous country with fertile valleys where they are growing wheat, tobacco, onions, and egg plant among other things. Oleanders grow all over the Holy Land and are growing wild in many places. The small houses look very much like the adobe houses out west with no screens at the windows. The land is very rocky and is plowed by oxen. There were many Bedouin tents made of black goat hair, and a few tents made of burial. The sheep and goats are all together, and it is hard to tell them apart. Camels and donkeys are used for transportation. We stopped at the place in the river Jordan where John the Baptist baptized Jesus. This is a small deep green river with trees along the edge. We drove a long the Dead Sea, which is 1,300 ft. below sea level. It is 26 times as salty as sea water, and tastes ham's Troupe. They were very bitter. This was an overnight journey of the Good Samaritans, some of it on horseback was told to us by the back. They were all meek-guide as we stood on the Billy Graham shortly in site. cities built on top of an old city. As the countries were conquered by Romans, Egyptians, the Crusaders etc., the Temples were destroyed and new ones built on top of the ruins.

We stayed in the International Hotel in Jerusalem overlooking the Garden of Gethsemane. In this garden are eight olive trees 800 years old which are hollow, but still bear olive. Sixteen nations have built a beautiful church here with lovely lavender. Alabaster windows from Constantinople. Inside the church is the Rock of Agony. The Mount of Olives was about two blocks above our hotel.

In the Church of the Nativity, Armenian, Greek, and Catholics worship. Protestants are allowed to use the church for Christmas Eve. This is built over the stable where Jesus was born. We walked down under the church where the altars, are built and candles burn all the time.

It was Sunday when we the adobe houses out west walked along the Stations of the Cross where Jesus was whipped, the crown of thorns put on his head, and he fell three times. It was a thrilling experience to us. There is a beautiful Cathedral built where the three crosses stood. The ceiling and walls are decorated with pictures made of gold inlay. At the Tomb, there is a Greek Monk at all times in the river Jordan where John the Baptist baptized Jesus. This is a small deep green river with trees along the edge. We drove a long the Dead Sea, which is 1,300 ft. below sea level. It is 26 times as salty as sea water, and tastes ham's Troupe. They were very bitter. We saw some touring the Holy Land, and of the walls of Jericho with were going to the lost red of the Mount of Transfiguration, rock-carved city of Petra. This was an overnight journey of the Good Samaritans, some of it on horseback was told to us by the back. They were all meek-guide as we stood on the Billy Graham shortly in site. In Bethany we walked in his Crusade thru a churchyard of olive trees and holychocks, and lion refugees from Israel built over them and usual- vided by this fence. Eighty we go down underground ten years ago the United as new buildings have been Nations divided Palestine to built over old ones, even make Israel.

A doll show contest was the feature of the week on Friday, June 15, at the South Bay Park. The park has been a beehive of activity this summer with the children enjoying the Summer Enrichment Program that has been conducted there and at the South Bay Elementary and Crispheart played alert ball taking advantage of every break and there were plenty of breaks.

This game marked the end of regular play with the championship being captured by Crispheart, who have played good steady ball all year. South Bay Groves finished in second place and South Bay Lions came in third.

Everyone in the area was saddened and shocked to learn of the fatal accident of our friend, Horace Clifton Collins or "Cliff," as we all knew him.

Cliff was an unusual boy. All of the young people loved him and so did the adults. He was a combination of all the good qualities—cheerful and smiling yet serious and studious when the occasion demanded it.

Cliff will leave a lot of fond memories with all of us. We will all miss him, but we know, "the rose still grows beyond the wall."

July 25th Is Deadline To Register For Fall Classes At PBJ College

College students who plan to go to day classes at Palm Beach Junior College this fall were warned today by Registrar Elbert E. Bishop that applications must be made by 3 p. m. Monday, July 25.

"The main application form must be filled out, signed and in our hands by 3 p. m.," Bishop said. "As far as I am concerned, there will be no exceptions."

"Students are then allowed an extra week, until 3 p. m. Aug. 1, to file the supporting documents. Final testing, also required before registration, will take place Aug. 2."

Bishop urged students not to wait until the last day to make application. "Those applying early will be given appointments for registration — the earlier the application, the earlier the appointment. Early registration means a better selection of classes and easier completion of the desired schedule," he pointed out.

Bishop, who will be starting his 30th year with the college this fall, said that every year there are students who are bitterly disappointed because they miss the application deadline.

"We don't enjoy turning students away," Bishop said "but we must stick to deadlines of the college if it is to be run in orderly fashion."

Special arrangements have been made by the college to allow application for evening classes up until registration, Aug. 15-18, but day students must meet the July 25th deadline to allow time for processing of records.

Enrollment at the college last fall was 3,000 day students and 1,500 evening students. Maximum registration this fall has been set at 3,400 day students and 1,800 evening students by Dr. Harold C. Manor, president.

Dr. Manor has warned that a last-minute rush by large numbers of students, such as developed last year, could possibly result in some students being turned away this fall.

All prospective students who have not completed all application forms and received registration appointments should do so immediately, in order to assure their place in school this fall.

Mrs. Armstrong Joins Kirk Real Estate

A resident of Belle Glade for three years, Mrs. Armstrong recently completed her studies and passed the State Board examination

Her husband, Earl, is district superintendent in the Glades area for Coastal States Life Insurance Company.

The couple are parents of a son, Mark Farrington, age 8.

F. R. Anderson Named Chairman

Frank R. Anderson, Vice President of the Kiwanis Club of Miami, has been named game Operation Chairman for the Ninth Annual Kiwanis Freshman Football Classic.

Dean Davidson is General Chairman for the annual game between the University of Miami and the University of Florida Freshmen teams. This year's game will be played Friday night November 4, in the Orange Bowl.

The Boy Scout motto of "Be Prepared" should apply to all outdoorsmen, according to Brantley Goodson, law enforcement chief of the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission.

Sports Highlights

American Legion Post 141 baseball team composed mainly of players from the Glades area and managed by former Belle Glade coach Luke Thornton surprised the experts with its fine showing in their first year of American Legion District 9 play.

Led by good hitting and exceptional pitching, the team played consistently throughout the season, defeating coastal teams from West Palm Beach to Fort Lauderdale.

Many of the players familiar to Glades sports fans, have outstanding records in the league. Tony Latour, well known for his football activity, led the league in hitting for many weeks. With players coming from both the coast and Glades, practice was almost impossible.

Some thirteen teams sponsored by various American Legion Posts participated.

The winners of the District championship meet in a playoff for the state title. With the experience gained by former Post 141, should be high up in the standings again next year.

Pumping Record More Than Doubled In Fiscal Year Ended June 30th

The Central and Southern Florida Flood Control District pumped a record 645 billion gallons of water during the fiscal year ended June 30, more than twice as much as the previous year, it was announced today.

Heavy rains, an early hurricane and a soggy tropical depression this calendar year caused the bulk of pumping — 372 billion gallons. A total of 273 billion gallons were pumped from July 1, 1965, to January 1, 1966, a period that eased conditions of a four-year drought.

The new record for the FCD's 11 pumping stations in Southeast Florida, more than doubled the 319 billion gallons pumped in 1964-65 and is 174 billion gallons more than the previous high of 471 billion gallons set by seven stations in 1960-61. Around-the-clock pumping at all stations was commonplace several times this year. The previous record year featured Hurricane Donna and Tropical Storm Florence in September, 1960.

This year, 24-hour-a-day pumping at all 11 stations was required to remove water dumped by Hurricane Alma and a tropical depression, both in June.

In addition, S-8, a pumping station on the Miami Canal about 25 miles south of South Bay and S-7 on the North New River Canal at the Palm Beach-Broward County line were operated around-the-clock starting in late February to move water into FCD Conservation Areas to aid Everglades National Park. Pumping ceased at S-8 April 15 after the State Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission requested a shutdown, fearing that high water would harm fawning deer in Conservation Area 3. Pumping had been held to a minimum between 1961 and 1965 when a drought not only kept water storage levels below regulation stages, but severely dried out most of the Conservation Areas in Palm Beach, Broward, and Dade Counties, and sections of the National Park.

Conservation Area 3, the FCD's largest water storage facility in the Everglades (914 square miles), did not reach regulation levels from the time it became operational in late 1962 until last month.

Currently, FCD Conservation Areas are above desired stages for July. Water is flowing by gravity through spillways which are wide open between Conservation Area 3 and Everglades National Park at the Tamiami Trail. Pumping Stations are continuing to move water into all Conservation Areas.

Water also is being discharged from Lake Okechobee, now about a half foot above regulation, to the Gulf of Mexico via the Caloosahatchee River and St. Lucie Canal by the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers. The FCD took as much Lake Okechobee water as possible for storage and release to the National Park before discharges were made to tide water.

Pumping operations were accelerated by the FCD this year as the result of above-normal rainfall in January and February, a soggy May and record of near-record rain in June over the Lower East Coast. The record 645 billion gallons for the fiscal year represent 1,878,427 acre feet of water, enough to stack more than four feet on 730-square mile Lake Okechobee.

Operations at pumping stations for the 12-month period required 25,433 unit hours, a record, surpassing the 18,171 operational hours of 1960-61.

The 11 pumping stations of the FCD are designed to pump more than 11 million gallons of water a minute if necessary. They can remove three quarters of an inch of water each day from more than 1,200 square miles.

Five of the stations are on Lake Okechobee's shore line. The largest is S-5A at Twenty Mile Bend on the West Palm Beach Canal about midway between West Palm Beach and Belle Glade. Others are on the Hillsboro Canal, between Conservation Areas 1 and 2, the North New River Canal between Conservation Areas 2 and 3, the Miami Canal at the northwest edge of Conservation Area 3, and on the South New River Canal west of Hollywood.

Pumping operations are necessary not only to protect life and property during flood threats, but to move fresh water into vast storage areas, and to aid the Everglades National Park.

In The Good Old Summertime

A cooling dip is being enjoyed by many a youngster at the southwest municipal pool during these unusually hot days.

Page 12 THE HERALD, Belle Glade, Fla. JULY 21, 1966

Appetite Sparklers For Hot Days

You can easily spark lighting summer appetites if you carefully plan your menu.

In the summer you can pick from a wide variety of salad possibilities, says Mary Todd, Extension Home Economics Agent. These include crisp lettuce, cabbage, peppy radishes, crab and cool cucumbers, crunchy celery, red tomatoes, watermelon, cantaloupe, guavas, mangoes and berries. You can serve fruit salad as an appetizer, main course or dessert.

Other appetizers include milkshakes and malteds for dessert-and-beverage combinations or fruit juice served in a long, frosty glass date.

The flag can be displayed whenever the weather permits, regardless of the date.

August 1 Is Deadline For Nominating ASC Committeemen

August 1, is the deadline for filing petitions nominating a farmer to serve as an ASC committee member. Eligible voters, may be filed at the ASC county office at any time before August 1, the deadline for such filings. Eligible voters may sign as many petitions as they wish.

In Florida ASC committees will be held by mail balloting August 16-26. Each community election chooses three community committeemen and two alternates. The regular members elected to the community committee also serve as delegates to a county convention where farmers will be elected to fill vacancies on the ASC county committee.

Programs administered by ASC county and community committees include the Agricultural Conservation Program, acreage allotments, marketing quotas, commodity loans, the feed grain program, the voluntary wheat program, the upland cotton diversion program, the Sugar Act program, the National Wool program, farm storage facility loans, and others as assigned by the Secretary of Agriculture.

Fingers were made before forks but forks can make do. The children at one center were eating lunch. One small boy picked up a large slice of pineapple upside down cake and it began to drip on his fingers. "Use your fork," suggested the teacher. She turned away to give her attention to another child and when she turned back she saw the little boy had solved his problem. He had carefully speared the big piece of cake with his fork and was happily eating away.

It is a very pleasant experience to visit the five centers in the Glades and see the children responding to experiences in Headstart that they have never had before.

Many groups have had the experience of seeing and taking part in the building of an aquarium. They can count the fish and tell you about the snails and point out the new baby fish so tiny they can hardly be seen.
